

COURSE OFFERINGS

FALL 2023

HONR 112.041 [2954]

Psychology of Science, Pseudoscience and Truthiness

Lance Garmon • MWF 3-3:50 p.m. • AC 301

This course explores the psychology of science, pseudoscience, and truthiness. It examines the role of psychology in the development of scientific theories and the impact of pseudoscience on society. The course also discusses the concept of truthiness and its implications for the scientific process.

Meets General Education IIIB or IIIC

HONR 211.042 [3530]

Issues in Humanities: The Wonders of Latin America

Ethel Barja Cuyutupa • MW 9:30 a.m.-11:45 a.m. • HO 105

This course explores the wonders of Latin America, focusing on the issues in humanities. It examines the cultural, social, and political aspects of Latin American societies and the impact of these issues on the region's development. The course also discusses the role of humanities in understanding the complexities of Latin American societies.

Meets General Education IIIA or IIIC

HONR 212.041 [2031]

Exercise Is Medicine

Timothy Werner • MWF 10-10:50 a.m. • DH 130

This course explores the concept of exercise as medicine. It examines the role of exercise in promoting health and preventing disease. The course also discusses the impact of exercise on mental health and the role of exercise in the treatment of various conditions.

Meets General Education IVB

HONR 311.041 [2105]

Fraudsters, Scammers and Hackers: Exploring the Historical, Social,
Economic, Political and Ethical Dimensions of Fraud and High-Tech Crime

David P. Weber • MW 5:50-7:05 p.m. • PH 249

HONR 312

Honors Research/Creative Project

This course is designed for students who are interested in conducting research or a creative project. Students will work closely with a faculty mentor to develop and execute their project. The course is open to students who have completed HONR 311 or HONR 310. Prerequisites: HONR 311 or HONR 310. Credit: 3.0.

HONR 490.041 [2600]

Thesis Preparation

Lauren Hill • M 5-5:50 p.m. • AC 302

This course is designed for students who are preparing for their thesis. Students will work closely with a faculty mentor to develop and execute their thesis. The course is open to students who have completed HONR 490.040. Prerequisites: HONR 490.040. Credit: 3.0.

HONR 495

Honors Thesis

TBA – Individual Faculty Mentors

This course is designed for students who are completing their thesis. Students will work closely with a faculty mentor to complete their thesis. The course is open to students who have completed HONR 490.041. Prerequisites: HONR 490.041. Credit: 3.0.

HONR 496.041 [2601]

Honors Thesis Consultation

Andrew Martino • M 5-5:50 (i9 128.5361 Tm())TJETEMC 12 (i)-20-29.5)-16.7 (A62 (o)2.3 (n)3 H)4.6 (

ECON 211.01H [3574] [1367]

Principles of Microeconomics

Hong Yao • TR 2-3:15 p.m. • PH 275

This course covers the basic principles of microeconomics, including supply and demand, market equilibrium, consumer choice, and production. It also discusses the role of government in the economy and the effects of taxes and subsidies. The course is designed for students who are interested in understanding the economic behavior of individuals and firms.

Meets General Education IIIB or IIIC

INFO 211.65H [1671]

Information Systems Concepts for Management

William Burke • M 10-11:45 a.m. (LEC); LAB online (5100) • PH 248

This course introduces the concepts and applications of information systems in management. It covers the role of information systems in decision-making, the types of information systems, and the challenges of implementing and managing information systems. The course is designed for students who are interested in understanding the role of information systems in the business environment.

INFO 326.07H [2757]

Operations Management

Hoon Cha • TR 12:30-1:45 p.m. • PH 352

This course covers the principles and practices of operations management, including the design of production systems, inventory management, and the control of production processes. It also discusses the role of operations management in the business environment and the challenges of managing operations in a global context. The course is designed for students who are interested in understanding the role of operations management in the business environment.

